

What is OVEC?

The Ohio Valley Educational Cooperative (OVEC) is a consortium of 14 school districts serving over 50,000 students in north central Kentucky. Established in 1976, the cooperative provides a vehicle for conducting regional planning, development, and implementation of educational programs on a continuing basis. OVEC offers programs that serve member school districts, their student populations and families.

What is OVEC's mission?

The mission of the Ohio Valley Educational Cooperative is to provide high quality services and programs that support, empower and build capacity in school learning communities, thereby benefiting children, families and the community in their roles to ensure that students achieve their highest academic, social and emotional potential.

How is OVEC funded and administered?

OVEC operates through the membership fees of participating districts and through federal, state, local, and foundation funding, with an annual budget of $9.7 million. Excluding staff hired through arrangement with other agencies, OVEC employs approximately 230 people, most of whom are field based.

The 14 superintendents of member districts serve on the Board of Directors, the policy-making body of the cooperative. The Chief Executive Officer is responsible for overseeing all programs and services.

What services does OVEC provide?

- Professional development for teachers, administrators, and support staff
- Coordinated regional bidding
- Instructional support services
- Multi-district grant coordination
- Consultation and technical assistance
- Consultation with superintendents on personnel, finance, and other issues
- Special reports and publications

Who does OVEC serve?

OVEC programs serve students from preschool through grade twelve. Adult populations are also served through some programs. OVEC works in partnership with, and for the benefit of, its member districts, their schools, and the children, families, and communities they serve.

What linkages does OVEC maintain?

OVEC collaborates with the Kentucky Department of Education, the Collaborative for Teaching and Learning, other educational cooperatives, and a wide variety of other organizations and agencies to promote understanding and to provide mutual benefit. OVEC also has strong linkages with the University of Louisville, including involvement with the P-16 Council. OVEC is a member of the American Association of Educational Service Agencies and the Kentucky Association of Educational Cooperatives.
